A cartoon character dressed as a detective, wearing a blue hooded cloak with a small blue hat on top, white gloves, white socks, and black shoes. The character is holding a magnifying glass over their face, looking intently at the ground. The background is a simple landscape with rolling hills and a small building in the distance.
